HARLEM WIZARDS BASKETBALL CAMP COMING TO BEIJING

August 21, 2006

Arnold "A-Train" Bernard and Chris "Handles" Franklin of the Harlem Wizards are bringing Wizard ball to Beijing. The Camp's theme is "From Fundamentals to Freestyle" and will run from August 28th thru 31st.

Freestyle is very popular throughout the world as a creative basketball art. This camp is an opportunity to learn from the players who were part of the craze that began with the NIKE FREESTYLE COMMERCIAL.

What is unique about "A-Train" and Mr. Handles is that they are great point guards, and ball-handlers--not only tricksters. The range of their skills takes them beyond the confines of freestyle and fundamentals, intersecting those two basketball universes.

A-Train standing only 5'7" was an honorable mention College All-American at Southwest Missouri State University, and Mr. Handles was second in the USA in Assists and Steals in College.

From these guys, you can learn how to become a better ball-handler, how to play to be a successful point guard, and understanding the difference between moves for show and expression, and moves and skills to gain a competitive edge.
